- ❖ Please remember the Club is subsidising half the cost of an Accredited First Aid Course this financial year. The Management Committee will need to see the Certificate of Achievement and Receipt for the Course.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT 2014

It has been another successful year of bushwalking. Looking back over the walks' program for the previous year, I have been struck by an increased enthusiasm for extended trips. Our members have jaunted along the Jatbula Trail at Katherine, fluttered through the Flinders Ranges in SA, loped along the Larapinta Trail to Alice Springs through the desert starkness, and are about to mooch around the Mornington Peninsula in Victoria. In addition, there have been shorter visits to Great Keppel Is and Blackdown Tableland, and a solid contingent of Club members travelled to the annual Combined Clubs' Campout, this year hosted by the Gladstone Club at Calliope. And all this in conjunction with a full program of day walks and socials throughout the year. So a deserved "well done" to all the Club members who contributed to these events throughout the year, particularly the walk and social leaders, without whose efforts the Club would flounder. It is also pleasing to report that the Club has maintained a strong membership - at last count the Club had 84 financial and life members. Once again, at least the majority of our members have participated in one or more activities over the year, with a number of new faces appearing regularly on outings. My one concern, apparent also in other clubs, is that the Bushwalkers are not yet seeing an interest from newer members to take on management, walks and socials leadership roles, depending on a small subset of its membership for both roles.

As usual, my thanks also to the other management committee members for their contributions during the year, and to the newsletter editor and social committee members for their continuing efforts.

I hope your walking continues to go well.

John Rideout

COME TO THE KIMBERLEY IN 2015

Looking for a new place to explore in 2015? Or maybe revisit an old favourite?

I'm looking for anyone interested in coming up to NW parts of Australia.

The very vague plan so far is:

- Fly to Kununurra (or drive if you lead the retired life and have more time)
- Hire a 4WD (or two)
- Take your camping gear
- Head off to such places as Lake Argyle, Mitchell River Falls, Gibb River Road- but no set route at this stage
- Stop at whatever other places along the way look interesting
- Time for walking, paddling and whatever other pursuits come our way
- Head off in either June or September school holidays
- Take about 2 weeks (but up to 2 extra weeks perhaps)
- Follow advice from my cousin who has done quite a lot of rogaining, walking and driving in these places (and any other travellers to such places)

I reckon it will only take 4 of us to get the adventure off the ground but I intend to put this in Gladstone, Capricornia and Bundaberg Bushwalking clubs' newsletters, so perhaps we can put together a mixed bunch of like minded walkers to explore the NW.

If you are interested in the idea, as vague as it is at this stage, email me h.mackay@aapt.net.au so we can make it happen. Or pass it on to anyone else who might be interested

Helen Mackay (Gladstone Bushwalkers)

On the Day We Climbed Mt Maryvale

10 August 2014

The air was so crisp, hot smoke – not a wisp,
And the sky was bright blue, the colour so true,
On the day we climbed Mt Maryvale.

The grass was dark green, a colour so clean,
And the trees they were tall, not one dared to fall,
On the day we climbed Mt Maryvale.

The breeze, it was mild, like the breath of a child,
And the songs of the birds were like nothing you'd heard,
On the day we climbed Mt Maryvale.

The pulse of the bush, it made our hearts push,
And the rocks on the ground, they made our feet pound,
On the day we climbed Mt Maryvale.

No rain in the air, a moment so rare,
And the sun - a warm ball, to the west it would fall,
On the day we climbed Mt Maryvale.

We knew that when edges had frayed, both on hill and in glade,
Mother Nature would fade the tracks that we'd made,
On the day we climbed Mt Maryvale.

HALLOWEEN

31ST October 2014

Due to circumstance unforeseen
We were forced to cancel what might have been
And gather instead where ghosts may be seen
At a house in Ross Street, number 18

“Morticia & Gomez” Maunder were there
Dottie and Mark with hilarious hair
Pauline & June were witches to scare
And the party was run by the Old Grey Mare

Sharyn and Carol and Andy and Wayne
Were there as well having fun it was plain
So maybe next year we'll do it again
(Well nobody said we had to be sane)

Jack O'Lantern glowed by the gate
As food was brought in, plate after plate
We all had the bloat from how much we ate
But we played games and chatted until it was late

The neighbourhood kids came “Trick or Treat”
Working their way up and down our street
So we loaded them up with lollies to eat
(I cannot face another thing sweet!)

Mary

HALLOWEEN

Rainforest Creek, Mt Archer 28 October

This walk was almost cancelled due to lack of numbers and that would have been a great shame. It was a beautiful walk made easier by the lack of water in the creek which meandered for 3 km up the 600m elevation over small rocks, big rocks, boulders and waterfalls but none of it was too taxing.

Next time you are driving over the Fitzroy Bridge look up at Mt Archer and it is through the big dark green V shape almost in the middle of the mountain range that we were walking.

“We” being a small party of 5 hardy bushwalkers or more like bushwalking tragics. Our creek loving leader, Pauline, armed with her trusty compass, map and GPS, led Glyn, Carol, Deborah and myself enthusiastically onwards and ever upwards while at the same time letting us take many opportunities to stop and enjoy the beauty of the surroundings and take in the native flora and bird life along the way.

Glyn is our resident builder of rock cairns and the way up the creek system is now very well signposted with a series of well-balanced cairns. Unfortunately, the dreaded lantana is very present on the ridge lines but not in the creek itself. It made the final 20-30m a bit more of a challenge as we left the creek to make our way to Pilbeam Drive. Thank you for persevering with the walk, Pauline.

Mornington Peninsula (MP) 2014

How many bushwalkers does it take to find their way from the MP to Tullermarine Airport? More than 14! (And that is despite the assistance of numerous satellite assisted gadgets and critically placed, very large, very helpful, blue and white signage!)

Difficulties in navigation aside, this year's trip to the Mornington Peninsula can only be described in two words – just great! Even the weather came to the party and held off for the 7 days that we were there. The two days of heavy sea fog that we did experience just added to the whole adventure.

Moonahridge, our holiday home at St Andrew's Beach, had so many rooms in it that it was possible to get lost – and some did in the first few days. Many a member was found wandering along indeterminately as they struggled to work out just where did they leave their bedroom and “where is the kitchen?” Mind you, I don't think too many people had difficulty finding the outside hot tub after a day's walking.

Speaking of things kitchen and therefore cooking, we were spoilt with an array of excellent dishes over the week. Members buddied up and took it in turns to produce a meal for their 12 counterparts.

The high level of organisation skills displayed together with a slice or two of ingenuity, could only be admired. MKR (My Kitchen Rules) eat your heart out. We could have a couple of contenders!

Centrally located on the southern side (wild surf side) of Mornington Peninsula, St Andrew's Beach, was a short drive to the start and finish points of the four sections of the Mornington Peninsula 100km Walk. The Two Bay track took us overland from Dromana to Cape Schank. Here, we spent two days walking through beautiful green reserves – literally called Green's Bush after the family who had donated the land – amidst very different flora.

The Coastal Track followed the beaches on the Tasman Sea side from Cape Schank up to Sorrento and it was along this stretch that we encountered the heavy sea fog together with some very hard, steeply-angled beach walking. Visibility was so limited on one occasion that we headed inland for fear of overshooting our exit point. Signage was somewhat lacking along this section.

The day spent exploring historical Point Nepean Reserve was probably one of the highlights of the trip. Left over from the war years and carefully restored, the honeycomb of tunnels and gunnery placements provided ample opportunities for people to get lost or at least go missing for lengthy periods of time!

The final section of the walk – the Bay Trail – was by far the most populous part of the walk but it was very interesting to see those iconic multi-coloured beach huts dotted along the trail together with the wonderful recreational facilities that have been provided by the local council. The group also took the opportunity to catch the ferry over to Queenscliff – a small, peaceful village that time and developers seem to have forgotten for the moment.

Back on the MP, the stylish, busy township of Sorrento was a very popular after walk destination for a few of the members especially when it came time to restocking food supplies etc. With 14 members along this year, we hired two 8 seater vehicles and our nominated drivers (Tony, Dorothy and Ian) managed each day's transport to and from walks with a minimum of fuss.

In his role as chief chauffeur and tourist guide, Ian Ellis, must once again be commended for his patience in dealing with all of the group dynamics but it was those dynamics that made it a truly enjoyable holiday.

North Keppel Island 18th – 19th October 2014

At 8.30am on Saturday morning, twenty-four of us met at the Marina at Rosslyn Bay Harbour with our gear for our two-day visit to North Keppel Island. We were to be hosted and fed by the staff at the NKI Environmental Education Centre for the weekend. So we loaded our gear and helped the caterers load the food onto the GUNDOO SPIRIT for our half-hour journey to the island. It was blowing 25knots from the SE which made for a bumpy ride.

We all arrived with our breakfast still intact. We formed a congo line to unload the gear onto the tractor and trailer and then made our way to our cabins – clean, basic accommodation. Each cabin is powered by solar and wind, and has an enviro-toilet.

After a welcoming introduction and a short explanation on the workings of the centre by the staff, we were provided with morning tea. Then it was off to Maizie Bay on the south side of the island for a short walk before lunch. Back in time for the lunchtime bell, we were provided with a delicious feed of fish, rice and salads. And then it was off to Considine Beach on the NE side of the island for a swim and snorkel. We made our way back to the centre to prepare ourselves for the onslaught of Happy Hour. This was taken at 5 o'clock (somewhere), overlooking the beautiful Keppel Bay and watching the sun disappear over Mt Barmoya. Many photos were taken. Following this was a sumptuous dinner provided by the cooks. Photos in the dining room showed the early white settlers on NKI.

The sun, sand and sea air on the island have the combined effect of enticing a good night's sleep, so it was an early night for most. Some were heard to be dancing and jigging to the piano accordion for a while longer.

Sunday morning arrived with presence of grey clouds and some very light misty rain, however these soon disappeared, blown away by the 30 knot wind. At least it blew the sandflies away as well. After a delicious breakfast, we assembled for a walk to the eastern side of the island. Our first stop was the Keppel Bay Lookout, which gives great views to the south taking in Pumpkin (XXXX)

Island, Sloping, Myall, Middle and Great Keppel Islands. Then on to the highest point on NKI. This provides magnificent 360 degree views of the islands to the north and south, as well as views of the prominent mountains on the mainland, that members of the club have climbed at some time or other. Combined with the azure blue waters, and the waves whipped up by the wind, this is truly one of the best vistas on the Queensland coast.

We walked the gently undulating hills for about a kilometre to the south and then retraced our steps to the summit. From there the trail to the north drops and winds a couple of kilometres to the Bayview Outlook. From here we could see the beautiful Conical Island, Corroboree Island and Conical Rocks. Across the bay were the Byfield Mountains and the beaches and bays north to Manifold Rocks. A welcome snooze in the sun, fanned by the strong cool wind, was taken by nearly all walkers on the grassy hilltop.

It was about two kilometres back to the centre from here, and once we descended back into the trees, the cool wind abated and it was a hot and tired group that made their way into camp. All up it was about a 10km morning walk. Lunch was waiting for us on our return. After lunch it was a matter of packing up our gear, cleaning out the cabins, loading up the tractor and trailer and heading to the boat for the return trip. The wind had picked up further, and we were expecting a rough trip, but the GUNDOO SPIRIT and the skipper gave us a relatively easy trip home.

All up – a great weekend fostering wonderful friendships between club members, wonderful food and lodgings, and some fantastic walks. Thanks must go to Cheryl for organising the whole deal at a price which didn't dent the hipocket, and to the staff and caterers at NKIEEC.
